CRIMINAL JUSTICE (CJ)

CJ501: Criminological Theory
This course consists of an in-depth analysis of various explanations of criminal behavior. Readings include the original works of prominent authors from a broad range of disciplines related to crime, social deviance, and causation. Ethical and legal foundations in defining social deviance and crime are also considered. Specific focus is placed on applications of theory that address causes and correlations of criminal behavior in a variety of cultures throughout the world. This course is well suited for criminal justice practitioners, as students apply criminological theory to contemporary issues.
Quarter Credit Hours: 5 | Prerequisite: None

CJ503: Organizational Behavior
This course presents an in-depth analysis of the various dynamics facing criminal justice organizations in the context of professional practice, including, but not limited to, the theoretical concepts underlying organizational behavior, management and leadership of human resources, and design and structural processes. The scope includes fiscal accountability; personnel deployment; implementation of change; motivation and retention of personnel; the hiring, assignment, and promotion of personnel; organizational communication; professional development; and fundamental legal issues as they pertain to agency operations.
Quarter Credit Hours: 5 | Prerequisite: None

CJ505: Critical Issues in Criminal Justice
This course will address critical issues affecting the major tenets of the criminal justice profession, including, but not limited to, homeland security, training and education, ethics and morality in professional practice, and community-based law enforcement and corrections programs. Other current trends and any other critical issue facing the fields of policing, private security, and corrections are addressed as needed.
Quarter Credit Hours: 5 | Prerequisite: None

CJ508: Evidentiary Issues in Criminal Cases
This course involves the study of the Federal Rules of Evidence and similar state rules, as well as the requirements of the U.S. Constitution concerning the admission into evidence of testimonial and physical evidence at trial. You will examine such topics as the foundational requirements for the admission of real and demonstrative exhibits, the authentication of writings and business records, witness credibility, hearsay, privileges, expert testimony, victims' rights, and chain of custody. This course is particularly well suited for those criminal justice professionals whose jobs require them to testify in court on a regular basis.
Quarter Credit Hours: 5 | Prerequisite: None

CJ509: Comparative Criminal Justice Systems
This course covers comparative foreign criminal justice systems. You will examine the administration of the subsystems of criminal justice systems, including the impact on emergency management, and the influence of religion and culture on the development of legal traditions and legal systems. You will compare and contrast various criminal justice systems and consider trends facing criminal justice systems around the world.
Quarter Credit Hours: 5 | Prerequisite: None

CJ510: Specialized Criminal Statutes and Complex Investigations
This course involves the study of legislation and case law that affect the daily practice of criminal justice professionals in the context of investigative techniques and the prosecution of cases. Students examine such areas as white-collar crime; the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations (RICO) Act; money laundering; health care fraud; wire, mail, and bank fraud; identity and access device fraud; securities fraud; insurance fraud; corporate criminal liability; tax enforcement; and public corruption. In addition, the USA PATRIOT Act, Title III wiretaps, and grand jury procedures are also discussed.
Quarter Credit Hours: 5 | Prerequisite: None

CJ511: Employment and Policy Law
This course involves the study of specialized topics in substantive and procedural criminal law with a special emphasis on employment law, and how these legal issues impact ethics and leadership in criminal justice organizations. This course is well suited for command-level personnel in response to a variety of potential agency and personal liability issues.
Quarter Credit Hours: 5 | Prerequisite: None

CJ513: Critical Issues in Terrorism
This course is designed to provide you with a critical analysis and understanding of issues related to terrorism. This includes historical analyses of the causes and effects of social, political, economic, and religious conflict as they pertain to terrorist groups from source countries; protective intelligence gathering and associated legal issues; threat assessment; emergency first-responder plans and policies; counterterrorism tactics and strategies; cyberterrorism and the role of technology; and concerns for the future.

CJ521: Critical Issues in Corrections
This course provides a critical analysis of issues facing the U.S. correctional system. You will address issues such as the philosophies and theories that guide practice, community-based policies and practices, special populations, recidivism, and the administration and operations of correctional facilities.
Quarter Credit Hours: 5 | Prerequisite: None

CJ523: Critical Issues in Juvenile Justice
This course is designed to explore the social context of delinquency, law, the history of the juvenile court, policing in juvenile justice, and court and corrections interventions with regard to children who have been victimized or are criminal. The course integrates scholarship and case law to investigate the many layers of the juvenile justice system, including how the juvenile court works and why it works the way it does. Upon completion, you will have much more than a cursory understanding of the juvenile justice system.
Quarter Credit Hours: 5 | Prerequisite: None

CJ524: Community-Based Corrections
This course is designed to identify community-based corrections programs and to explore the issues relevant to the field of community-based corrections. The materials presented will draw upon scholarly and practical research to identify the programs commonly used, what "works," policy issues, services provided, costs, and who receives probation and parole. Boot camps, electronic monitoring, house arrest, day treatment, fines, community service, drug courts, and other alternatives will be discussed. You will have the opportunity to debate and better understand the many challenges facing probation, parole, and community-based corrections.
Quarter Credit Hours: 5 | Prerequisite: None
CJ525: Applied Research in Criminal Justice
This course will introduce you to applied research within the profession, which encourages adoption of the role of a reflective practitioner who seeks to simultaneously understand and change the professional setting. It will provide you with the skills needed to design and conduct ethical research studies on topics relevant in applied criminal justice and homeland security/emergency management settings. To accomplish these objectives, you will examine the following: the applied research process, the principles of research design, research ethics, problems addressed through applied research, research literature reviews, sampling procedures, and techniques for selecting and using appropriate data collection tools and conducting effective data analyses.
Quarter Credit Hours: 5 | Prerequisite: None

CJ526: Academic and Professional Communications in Public Safety
Effective and appropriate communication is essential for success in academic and professional worlds. Academic and Professional Communications in Public Safety is designed to prepare you for the rhetorical challenges found in your coursework, professional career, and final capstone/research paper. You will learn to clearly communicate complex and sophisticated materials to a wide variety of expert and nonexpert audiences using written techniques. This course will introduce the basic elements of academic and professional writing at the holistic and paragraph levels. You will learn about audience and purpose as well as the graduate research, writing, and formatting process. These skills are coupled with an additional focus on the context, delivery, and medium through which you will communicate. Emphasis is also placed on accurately citing and quoting primary materials, organizational strategies, and grammar, editing, and usage skills.
Quarter Credit Hours: 5 | Prerequisite: None

CJ598: Applied Research Project
In this course, you will experience the art and science of applied research while developing the tools of reflective inquiry and collaborative practice. You will engage in analysis of current issues and challenges to explore and practice applied research methods as a logical extension of professional practice. Integral to this process is the examination of both informal and systematic ways to ask and answer questions. Within the course, you will propose your own applied research project.
Quarter Credit Hours: 5 | Prerequisite: Final Term
