CJ510: Specialized Criminal Statutes and Complex Investigations
This course involves the study of legislation and case law that affect the daily practice of criminal justice professionals in the context of investigative techniques and the prosecution of cases. You will examine such areas as white-collar crime; the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations (RICO) Act; money laundering; health care fraud; wire, mail, and bank fraud; identity and access device fraud; securities fraud; insurance fraud; corporate criminal liability; tax enforcement; and public corruption. In addition, the USA PATRIOT Act, Title III wiretaps, and grand jury procedures are also discussed.
Quarter Credit Hours: 5 | Prerequisite: None

CJ511: Employment and Policy Law
This course involves the study of specialized topics in substantive and procedural criminal law with a special emphasis on employment law, and how these legal issues impact ethics and leadership in criminal justice organizations. This course is well suited for command-level personnel in response to a variety of potential agency and personal liability issues.
Quarter Credit Hours: 5 | Prerequisite: None

CJ513: Critical Issues in Terrorism
This course is designed to provide you with a critical analysis and understanding of issues related to terrorism. This includes historical analyses of the causes and effects of social, political, economic, and religious conflict as they pertain to terrorist groups from source countries; protective intelligence gathering and associated legal issues; threat assessment; emergency first-responder plans and policies; counterterrorism tactics and strategies; cyberterrorism and the role of technology; and concerns for the future.
Quarter Credit Hours: 5 | Prerequisite: None

CJ521: Critical Issues in Corrections
This course provides a critical analysis of issues facing the U.S. correctional system. You will address issues such as the philosophies and theories that guide practice, special populations, recidivism, and the administration and operations of correctional facilities. You will also examine contemporary trends and the rationales for different correctional approaches.
Quarter Credit Hours: 5 | Prerequisite: None

CJ523: Critical Issues in Juvenile Justice
This course is designed to explore the social context of delinquency, law, the history of the juvenile court, policing in juvenile justice, and court and corrections interventions with regard to children who have been victimized or are criminal. The course integrates scholarship and case law to investigate the many layers of the juvenile justice system, including how the juvenile court works and why it works the way it does. Upon completion, you will have much more than a cursory understanding of the juvenile justice system.
Quarter Credit Hours: 5 | Prerequisite: None

CJ524: Community-Based Corrections
This course is designed to identify community-based corrections programs and to explore the issues relevant to the field of community-based corrections. The materials presented will draw upon scholarly and practical research to identify the programs commonly used, what “works,” policy issues, services provided, costs, and who receives probation and parole. Boot camps, electronic monitoring, house arrest, day treatment, fines, community service, drug courts, and other alternatives will be discussed. You will have the opportunity to debate and better understand the many challenges facing probation, parole, and community-based corrections.
Quarter Credit Hours: 5 | Prerequisite: None
CJ525: Applied Research in Criminal Justice
This course will introduce you to applied research within the profession, which encourages adoption of the role of a reflective practitioner who seeks to simultaneously understand and change the professional setting. It will provide you with the skills needed to design and conduct ethical research studies on topics relevant in applied criminal justice and homeland security/emergency management settings. To accomplish these objectives, you will examine the following: the applied research process, the principles of research design, research ethics, problems addressed through applied research, research literature reviews, sampling procedures, and techniques for selecting and using appropriate data collection tools and conducting effective data analyses.
Quarter Credit Hours: 5 | Prerequisite: None

CJ527: Socially Responsible Leadership in Public Safety
This course presents an in-depth evaluation of various dynamics facing public safety agencies in the environment of socially responsible leadership. Topics will include diversity, inclusivity, and equity in public safety leadership; social responsibility between public safety agencies and stakeholders; strategies for policy development; as well as community partnerships and accountability mechanisms. This course will furnish you with opportunities to examine what it means to be a socially responsible leader.
Quarter Credit Hours: 5 | Prerequisite: None

CJ598: Applied Research Project
In this course, you will experience the art and science of applied research while developing the tools of reflective inquiry and collaborative practice. You will engage in analysis of current issues and challenges to explore and practice applied research methods as a logical extension of professional practice. Integral to this process is the examination of both informal and systematic ways to ask and answer questions. Within the course, you will propose your own applied research project.
Quarter Credit Hours: 5 | Prerequisite: Final Term
